

Heart of the Home

THE BUILDER AND HIS WIFE constructed this beautiful French Country home in Asheville, North Carolina, as a speculative build, and both desired the kitchen to be the gathering area. This meant integrating plenty of space so guests felt comfortable and, of course, making it extra eye-appealing. As such, the cabinetry and granite were to be a focal point in the room, exuding a definite wow factor.

Luckily there were minimal challenges during the entire process, allowing for extensive creative freedom. Working with Larry Ficker of Cooper House, the team decided to incorporate an oversized island, allowing plenty of area to prepare food, serve drinks and accommodate friends and family. They also worked to forge a detail-oriented design to punch up the kitchen's overall ambiance, and the island serves as a stunning focal point in the splendid space.

When the design was complete, there were many beautiful points of focus throughout the room, including the oversized island with turnposts and beadboard, the beaded inset cabinet style and beadboard, the beaded inset cabinet style and beadboard, the beaded inset cabinet style and beadboard. Upon completion, the room was perfect from every angle and serves both form and function in this newly constructed home. «

DESIGNER
Larry Ficker
Cooper House
479 Hendersonville Road
Asheville, NC 28803
828.274.5414

SPECIAL FEATURES
Raised panel; maple beaded-inset with Sierra crackle-glaze cabinetry; maple hood and island, black, rubthrough and glaze, beadboard; turnposts and inset panels on island

DIMENSIONS
15 x 12

PRODUCTS USED
Cabinetry: Cooper House Custom by Rosewood Industries Inc.
Countertops: Granite
Sink(s): Elkay
Dishwasher: Bosch
Cooktop: Wolf
Refrigerator: Sub-Zero
Oven: Wolf
Warming drawer: Wolf
Microwave: Wolf

MEMBER OF
SEN DESIGN GROUP

PHOTOGRAPHER: PAUL JEREMIAS